Sharsted. This is on page 24 of Davis "The Deeds of Amherst County, Virginia, 1761-1807 and Albermarle County, Virginia, 1748-1763." This may be the land grant land above dated 1 Apr 1749 Why Jr here and not on 1749 land grant? New son? Of age?	(11-7-94) Huff's Creek branches East side of Tobacco Row Mountains - this creek drains into the Buffalo River which is possibly the land referred to in the 1748 deed above. (This is about 5 mi N NW from present day city of Amherst). Property could be as close as 12-15 miles to the Otter Creek property sold later in 1812/1832. Perhaps this James retained part of the land, continued living there, untaxed, until 1791 & 1792 when taxed as "Buff" Could then have turned 65 (1748 deed witness - 21 years = born circa 1727 + 65 = 1792) and become exempt? 100 A bought 1799 by James Jr. & Phoebee to sell in 1812. Let Grandson Robert farm in 1804-1806, then Senior sold 1812 but not recorded until 1832 as result of lawsuit after James Sr. deceased. How did all 230 acres wind up on both sides of Otter creek, which appears to be near James River on west side of Tobacco Row Mountains? James Sharsted, Jr. in 1751, sold 150 acres of land to William Cabell . The land was located on branches of Huff's Creek on the east side of the Tobacco Row Mountains adjacent to Benjamin Stennnets and Wm Cabell . Witnessed by James Freeland, James Christian and Philip Davis. Readers will see in the data under Amherst County that the name James Sharsted is most likely meant to be Shasteen and possibly can see a connection regarding the acreage and location of the land. Heirs at law usually include a spouse, children or grandchildren after the law of primogeniture was done away with in Virginia about 1786. (Up to 1786 the Law of Primogeniture existed in Virginia. The widow automatically received 1/3 life interest in the property and the eldest son (the Heir-at-law) received the other 2/3rds. The heir-at-law received the mother's portion at her death. The first grandson gets the next land, not the second son if the heir-at-law dies. The second son gets nothing but personal property. In 1734 all children received something in the will which usually included personal property.)
